Finally, I want to point out that the providens of the bill would not apply if the President or the head of any agency or department certifies in writ-ing to the Commission that the disclowife of information with respect to sec-sion 12 rates would endanger the national security.

All Mr. Speaker, the weakened condition of our national transportation system is a matter of grave concern to all of us. It is plain that a major contributing factor of ever-growing proportions is the failure of carriers to offer-and failure of the Government to insist upon-comparative section 22 rates. No budgetary purpose is served by this practice—quite the contrary-and we know from experience that it only promotes ruinous competition which inhibits modernization of equipment and otherwise helps to destroy the common carrier system.

For the Government to have played this ignominious role as long as it has is little short of a national diagrace. We cannot allow congressional inaction to further the destructive process.

Mr. Speaker, I ask prompt committee consideration of the bill I have offered and urge its support by my colleagues on both sides of the aisle.

UBGENT NEED FOR CONGRES-BIONAL JOINT COMMITTEE ON INTELLIGENCE AGENCIES OF GOV-ERMMENT

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the previous order of the House the gentleman from Florida [Mr. Rocers] is recognized for 20 minutes.

OMr. ROGERS of Florida asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks and include extraneous matter.)

Mr. BOGERS of Florida. Mr. Speakor, particularly disturbing are the reports that no conclusive photographs of Soviet intermediate range ballistic missiles in Cuba were made available to the President until the task of aerial reconnaissance was transferred from CIA to the Air Force. In its March 4 lasue published this week. Newsweek magazine states that Presidential Security Adviser McGeorge Bundy transferred respon-sibility for these flights from CIA to the Strategic Air Command. Newsweek then states that the very first flight thereafter produced the evidence that triggered the face-down crisis of last October. Mr. Speaker, the implication clearly exists that CIA may have been the stopgap which accounted for the timelag of some 2 weeks in which the Russians almost completed their missile installation.

In addition the Central Intelligence Agency has also caught the public eye with the recent statements of former Director Allen Dulles. In his central Mr. Dulles said that the Kremlin had raised the art of espionage to an unprec-poented teleti and for the 24 should be executed from the total bought selected from the total bought selected from the built strike out tables as OF A should great a subject of the conditions of

I have introduced legislation to establish such a committee House Joint Resolution 211 Sand June last week, two of the Nation's leading new papers, the Washington Fost and the Evening Star, both editorially voiced their concern over the supersect agency and, under unanimous consent. I include those editorials in the RECORD A) ELL NHOW NO at this point:

CONTERNED AND THE CIA

As a former director of the organization, Allen Dulles writes with authority in his article declaring that there should be no further congressions; surbs on the ILE. O tral Intelligence Agency. This supersected enterprise, of course, embraces some of our Government's most delicate and most dangerous operations, and it therefore bears vitally on the security of the Nation. Institute why Mr. Dulles argues that it must be exempted from controls mornally exercised by either the House or the Senate or both working together in the form of a joint downworking together in the form of a journ committee. As he has put it, we are faced by an antagonist (the Kramilin) that has relied the art of agricunage, to an unprecedented height," and in such circumstances may need to put a bridle in the innerlies modification to talk too prior, which is interlies that should be classified."
